How does CraneSTAR work?

1. The CraneSTAR components monitor operational conditions
2. The CraneSTAR unit sends the crane's data via the local cellular network
3. The communication transfer lets you access your information from anywhere

How CraneSTAR helps you... make more money

When you know the working status of your equipment, you can make choices that positively impact your profits and productivity. CraneSTAR provides you with a working record of:

- Fuel consumption per hour
- Crane work time
- Operation status
- Load levels and information
- Cautions and alerts
- Service Meter Readings (SMR)

Knowing how your cranes are working helps you decide how you can better use your equipment, reduce downtime and become more efficient. Only CraneSTAR can give you the ultimate peace of mind and the answers you need to make more profitable business decisions.

How CraneSTAR helps you... keep your crane secure

Manitowoc knows that the security of your crane is a top priority. With CraneSTAR, you are ensured a number of measures that reduce the possibility of misuse or theft, including interactive map and location reporting.

CraneSTAR uses cellular data transmission to relay the location of your crane virtually anywhere in the world.

Knowing where every piece of your equipment is at all times not only helps you keep track of your fleet, it helps eliminate worry over security concerns.

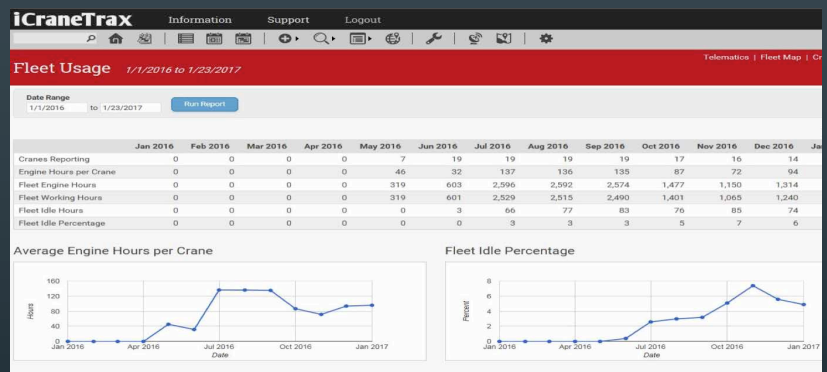

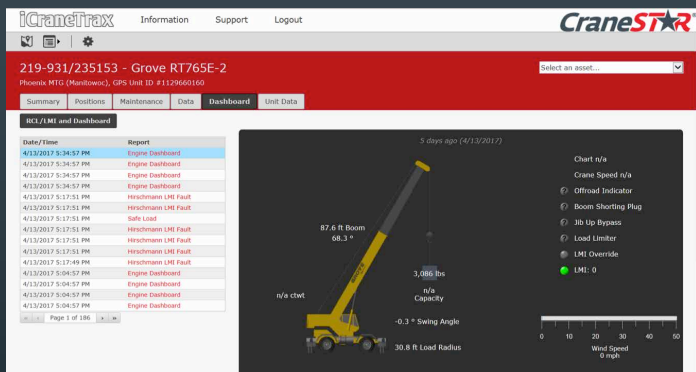

The screenshot shows the iCraneTrax web interface. At the top, there are navigation links for "Information", "Support", and "Logout". Below the navigation bar, the crane model "Grove RT650E (235068)" is displayed, along with the manufacturer "Phoenix MTG (Manitowoc)" and the GPS Unit ID "#789923". A menu bar contains tabs for "Summary", "Positions", "Maintenance", "Data", "Dashboard", and "Unit Data". The "Positions" tab is active, showing a table of location history. The table has columns for "Date/Time", "Heading", "Speed (mph)", and "Address". The data shows the crane's location in Orlando, FL, on 6/12/2017, with a speed of 0 mph. A map below the table shows the location of the crane in Orlando, FL, with a red pin and a search box containing the address "W Colonial Dr & FL-50 & US-92, Orlando, FL 32801, USA".
